'ENOCH ARDEN' SCORES TRIUMPH FOR COMPOSERS AND INTERPRETERS

One of the greatest love stories in all literature, with rare bits of musical interpretations by a composer many rank as the foremost of all time, was related to a deeply appreciative audience last night when Will Lewers, reader, and Frank Moss, pianist, together gave "Enoch Arden" at the Hawaiian Opera House.

The audience was unexpectedly large. Unexpectedly, because predictions had been made that the "high-brow program" would attract but few. That the Opera House was almost entirely filled was a tribute to the personal popularity of the two men. It is true, but that the audience went away praising the program was a tribute not so much to the artists, though each did his share splendidly, as to the eloquence of Tennyson's famous narrative poem and the genius of Richard Strauss' piano accompaniment.

It is safe to say that two-thirds of those present went not to hear Tennyson or Strauss but Lewers and Moss. But the tone-poem proved unexpectedly effective, and for this no small share goes to the local interpreters.

Mr. Lewers read the poem finely. It is no small task to hold an audience quiet through more than an hour of almost unintermitted declamation, particularly of a familiar story. Nothing but competent reading can do it.

Mr. Moss, at the piano, held the "ear's attention" without a lapse, and his physical manner was effective—an easy yet erect and impressive attitude behind his lighted reading stand, and almost a total absence of gestures. Such as he used were mostly by those of head and shoulders, and it was this care not to confuse the reader with the actor which allowed the audience to follow the music as well as the poem to the best advantage.

Mr. Moss, at the piano, had comparatively little to do. The great Bavarian composer was all too modest in his musical depictions of the theme of Enoch Arden. A brief introduction, an occasional few phrases, once in a while a few bars to characterize the moods of the three main figures—Enoch, Philip Gray and Annie Lee—and a descriptive passage or two—this is the extent of Strauss' offering. Few in the audience but wished there were more.

Perhaps the finest is the accompaniment to that magnificent verbal painting of Arden's lonely tropic island, beginning with true Tennysonian lines:

"The mountain wooded to the peak, the lawns
And winding glades high up like ways to heaven—"
Here Strauss has given a wonderful tonal passage, with "the league-long roller thundering on the beach" heard in the rhythmic beat of the breakers under the hands of a master pianist.

To most of the audience last night's method was obviously new. To say that the hearers were charmed is to use a hackneyed expression for the real cordiality with which they applauded Messrs. Lewers and Moss. Similar programs with these two men should be equally popular. Strauss affords a wide field from which to choose, beginning with his first composition of the kind, the musical setting to "Macbeth." And there are many others. It is not a new art, but it is novel to Honolulu.

Aside from this, the main part of the program, Mr. Moss gave five "hopin' numbers, all brief and light. Honolulu critics have come to expect masterly "hopin' interpretations by Moss and he did not disappoint them last night. The lovely "Berceuse," the cameo-like notes of the "Waltz, E Minor," and the comparatively heavier "Scherzo, B Minor," were in his best mood.

Mention should be made of the masses of greens, mostly shrubs and potted plants, adorning the stage and relieving the too-familiar bareness. The environment appeared to stimulate the artists.

AN INVITATION TO THE MOUNTAINEERS
If you wish to climb some mountains,
Just cross the ocean o'er
And climb up Mauna Kea and then up
Manna Loa.
And when you've climbed those snow-capped peaks, if you feel well,
Descend to Kilauea and take a look at Hell.
Thence take a trip to Maui, 'tis not so very far.
And try your muscles out on Halea-kala.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eyestrain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read anything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me."

A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read the fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so, as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. TRAINED FLEAS WILL BE SHOWN

With evident thought of the strict regulation against importing certain animals, birds and insects, and especially poisonous snakes into Hawaii, Prof. John C. Ruhl, the trainer of a drove of German house fleas which are to be exhibited at Ala park during the Mid-Pacific Carnival, has written to E. K. Fernandez and J. Cooper, the Carnival concessionaires, that "there is no danger of the fleas escaping as they are imprisoned with a log chain around their necks."

Honolulu people who saw the trained fleas at the Pan-Pacific Exposition will remember that the fleas are actually held prisoners with a tiny wire placed around their necks. Prof. Ruhl declares that it takes a half hour to place the wire on the fleas and an equal length of time to accustom the fleas to their various acts.

The Ruhl family has been training fleas for 73 years—grandfather, father and son succeeding each other. Prof. Ruhl says that it takes three months to train a flea to walk and that the average life of a flea is two years. They are fed twice a day on the arm of the trainer. A flea can be taught only one trick and that by force of habit.

Prof. Ruhl's fleas present a vaudeville show of seven parts, during which they are shown walking a tight-rope, juggling balls, jumping through hoops at command of the trainer and juggling miniature water wagons, tricycles, road rollers, chariots and cannons. One of the acts is called the "children's favorite," in which one flea is shown operating a small merry-go-round 5000 times its weight. The flea vaudeville ends with a flea ball in which the insects are shown dressed in paper costumes dancing to music.

A reward of $500 will be given to any charitable organization which is preferred by Prof. Ruhl, if it can be proved that his show is not given with real live fleas as represented.

VAUDEVILLE IS MUCH IMPROVED

Vaudeville at the Bijou theater last night was considerable of an improvement over the program of Saturday evening. The opening act, the figurative thorn in the side of the opening program, had been deleted, which fact alone greatly increased the strength of the program. Without this act, Will Clarence moved to the position of curtain-raiser, performed to better advantage on the basis, although his act is far from first class or "big time" timber. This, however, was made up by the strength of the acts which followed. The Corelli Trio again pleased and the harmony of their harp and pair of violins was beautiful. Truly a "big time" head-line number.

Moore and Elliott appeared to better advantage on the second program, the reason probably being that the opening act on the opening bill proved a "bloomer" and "got the goals" of a majority of the performers Saturday evening. Ambrose and Peggy Barker also showed improvement. Bertie Ford again won her house by her nimble and clever tight-wire act. To range "above the clouds" appears to be the delight of this young woman.

Degnon and Clifton make another act that figures in the electric lights "out front" anywhere from O'Farrell street to Broadway. As a strong man act it would be hard to beat. An entire change of program is promised for next week.

The establishment of an arbitration commission for the settlement of all claims between the United States government and the republic of Chile is proposed in a resolution introduced in the senate by Senator Swanson.
